MISCELLANEOUS READING.

WICKED MEMOIRS.

Eu.opean royalties are to be fluttered in a The Empress Catherine of Russia was a most energetic personage. She could not bear to be idle and yet disliked the society of more than one person at a time; and so, to kill time, in the intervals of business and sensuality, she wrote her momoirs, and, what is worse, she told the truth. The manuscript It was for many years kept a profound sccret, a family court mystery; but Alexander not liking to have it near him, placed it among the States' archives with Peter's will and such other awful documents. Some one copied verbatim the memoirs of the vicious Empress, and the copy was placed in the who, years ago escaped into British protection. having previously got his property into the British funds, and who now carries on untiring war against the Russian despotism -- a journal he publishes in the Russian language selling secretly many thousands among the Russians themselves scattered in France and Germany and even among Russians in Russia. This Herzen has, of course, grasped at the memoirs as a new weapon and new article in his propaganda; and the firm of Trub-Corner of King and Alfred sts. ner & Co., backed by the sovereigns of the ex-Ruse, dare to publish the book in French. Catharine, true to her sex, makes many awkward revelations, but one affects the honor of the Imperial family in a terrible way .-She declares empatically that her husband, the Czar, was not the papa of his children!-Bold in Catharine and damaging to the Czar certainly-but she effectually "clinches" the contersion, by mentioning the name of the father of her successor. Paul, and thus it comes out that the royal house of Romaneff now reigning, is illegitimate, and is, therefore, an usurpation. In Russia they may not think much of it even if it is true and not a vindictive canard; so many other royal houses, however, have intermarried with the Romanoffs that there will be a very general disgust in the "highest circles," especially in Germany, where pedigree is of even more consequence than tobacco. The book will undoubtedly be one of the sensations of the winter and may lead to protocolling and imperial demands for the surrender of Herzen and the hanging and and drawing and quattering of presumptuous Trubner & Co.

At a recent wedding-breakfast in Liverpool, the bride's father handed to her a note of £1,000, which the lady very properly transferred to her husband. He deposited it in his waistcoat-pocket, along with a £5 note, intended for the officiating clergyman. Before departing for the wedding tour the bridegroom handed the clergyman one of the notes in requital for his services and, gave the other note to his father for safe keeping. The mistake was recified!
